3. Completion of Pending Business.

The Minutes of the Meeting of October 21, 1998 were approved.

4. Report from the Chair.

Calvin Jones reported the following:

With regard to the Presidential Search, Jones reported that he had mailed a letter and the Senate's Resolution that had been passed in the October meeting to Mr. Striplin (Chair, Board of Trustees) with copies to other Search Committee members and Trustees.

Jones stated that the Workload Policy has created concern among the faculty. A Committee, chaired by then VP Moulton, was formed last year to draft the document because there was no workload policy in the handbook and because Federal granting agencies require a policy so that they can calculate funding for reassigned time. In recent meetings with President Moulton he has said that the committee had no intention of making either an overt or implicit change in the actual workload policy as it existed in practice. He stated that the policy speaks of the equivalent of 12 credit hours and that, for example, greater numbers of preparations or large class sizes could make fewer credit hours the equivalent of 12.

The Senate Handbook and Policy Committee has addressed this issue with strengthened wording, and Mr. Moulton has said that he did not have any problems with the recommended changes. Interim VP Covey said that calculations were made on the basis of both credit hours and contact hours. Both Moulton and Covey reiterated that each college has the option to alter the published standard load by mutual agreement between the faculty member, the chair, and the dean. Moulton said that he thought it was unrealistic to equate teaching and research time, as currently assumed, and that the new percentages are more realistic.

The Budget shortfall may cause reductions in the Colleges operating budgets, depending on the Spring enrollment. The announced cancellation of the Arts and Sciences Support and Development Awards has been rescinded.

One of the greatest concerns of the Senate Executive Committee and the faculty involves the relations between the University and the Foundation. We are distressed that the lack of communication not only reflects unfavorably on the institutions involved, but it also hinders the flow of funding and the development of projects crucial to the university's mission. The Executive Committee discussed the possibility of offering a resolution on this issue at this meeting, but decided that a resolution would not necessarily move the process forward at this point. We will try to work more informally to try to improve the situation, perhaps by attempting to get the two groups together at a meeting. We can decide whether or not a resolution will be necessary in the future. Listed below are some of the steps the Committee thinks are necessary:

- The University President should be given a seat on the Foundation Board. This would enable the chief executive officer to clear up any questions concerning the University's positions and intent more directly.
- Both the University and the Foundation should develop general principles concerning the types of projects that would be appropriate for funding. When both sides have agreed on these principles, the University would then be able to submit its requests more expeditiously. If there were better communication, informal discussions could also occur before the formal submission. For its part, the University should institute an internal procedure for developing requests. The ad hoc committee of faculty and administrators that worked on projects this fall could serve as a model.
- If it is not clear how funds are transmitted and directed, these procedures should also be agreed upon. The university will probably also need to develop internal procedures for communicating the arrival of funds and their purpose.
- The Foundation should determine and publish the parts of its assets devoted to restricted and unrestricted funds and to any areas that might not be currently available for providing assets. These lists should be accompanied by sufficient explanation to clarify the designations of the assets. If there should be disagreements about these designations, meetings should be held to discuss them and to resolve the differences.
- The Foundation should set a spending rate approaching 5% of available assets and should clarify its decision. Again, if there are disagreements, meetings should be held to come to an understanding.

With regard to Departmental Endowments, it appears that money for the four departments going on line this year has been received and a committee has met to review the guidelines proposed last year.

Interim VP Covey stated that she intends for the Honors Program to proceed next year, although it is not clear from the wording of the Foundation resolution on Honors Scholarships whether or not there will actually be funding for the program at this time.

Plans are moving along for the Library expansion. It is crucial that professionals and clients of the library have full input and that they make their views known soon, since a structure of this importance needs to be designed in the best way possible, as was the case with the Performing Arts Building.

Calvin Jones and Richard Vinson attended the ACCUFP meeting in Tuscaloosa. There will be another meeting in February 1999.

Jones asked that Faculty Senators should inform him of any concerns that they may have or may know about, or of any other areas that they feel he should pursue.
